A challenging march across the Fens from March to Cambridge, All within a single day (in March). This mammoth expedition was invented in 1979 by Jonathon Parrington, apparently because it seemed a good idea at the time. We will hopefully stop for pub meals along the way, but you should bring your own supplies too. (there is reputedly a tradition of date flapjacks being brought along...)

Meet: 06:00 at the train station for the 06:20 train to March

Return: Hopefully (!) arriving in Cambridge around 19:00

Cost: £8.00 (£5.30 with railcard) [Single to March] plus money for food.
